Bank Sues to Recover Error of $11,349

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Little Rock bank charged today that a depositor took advantage of an $11,000 clerical error to buy an airplane and an automobile, and transfer $3,800 to another bank.

The Bank of Arkansas filed suit for recovery of $11,349.87 from W. E. Alexander and his wife. The bank also asked that it have garnishment against the First National Bank for $3,800 it said was deposited there.

The bank said that Alexander opened a checking account in his and his wife's name on Aug. 8 and deposited $114.87.

On the same day, according to the suit, $11,349.87 was erroneously credited to the account.

The bank said the mistake was not discovered, and the erroneous balance was reflected in a statement sent the Alexanders on Sept.

matter of "age," said Dr. Henderson. "It is not altogether an accident that the leading cause of death from the age of 1 to about 25 is accidents. This is the period of greatest rebellion, repression and emotional conflict."

"After 30 the tendency to have accidents begins to fall off. But there is much truth in an old adage of the insurance business — after three accidents luck is no longer the major factor in the picture."

Are you accident-prone? Are you? You may be, according to Dr. Henderson, if:

1. You are fundamentally resentful against anyone or anything in life, carry a deep personal sense of guilt or brood about your problems while you are at work or behind the wheel of a car.

2. You haven't won the acclaim you feel you deserve in an important field, and you drive east or dangerously merely to call attention to yourself; or

3. You become flustered in any emergency, and react emotionally — instead of with mature and immediate judgment.

"The ability to recognize these feelings of resentment and guilt is the key to gaining maturity," said Dr. Henderson. "Otherwise, they are polite ways of self-murder, leading the individual unconsciously to destroy himself."

"I believe that at least half the accidents in industry and the home and on the highways could be avoided. But this requires two things — the ability of accident-prone individuals to have insight into their personality problems and face up to the task of becoming well-adjusted; the detection by psychological tests of accident-prone persons who are a menace to both themselves and others on the highway or in many industrial jobs."

But is it possible for an accident-prone person ever really to become safe?

"Yes, very definitely," said Dr. Henderson. "He should talk out his problem with friends, his minister, his physician once he recognizes his problem, and adjusts to it, he can become a safe person."

But he does have to face his problem — and conquer it by growing up.

GREAT LAKES SHIPPING

During their eight months of open navigation, the Great Lakes carry nearly 65 per cent as much shipping tonnage as the total annual offshore trade through U. S. salt water seaports.

A brass band organized at Toledo, Ohio, in 1884 to boost James G. Blaine's campaign for the presidency is still performing under its original name — the Marshall Band.

The suit charged that shortly afterward Alexander bought an airplane for $4,500, that a new automobile was acquired in Mrs. Alexander's name for $2,930 and that $3,800 was transferred to the First National Bank. The Bank of Arkansas honored all three checks.

The suit did not identify the Alexanders except by name.

Bell System Right System For Popular Tony Randall

Tony Randall is the object of Jane Mansfield's affections in Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope comedy, "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?", which opens Sunday at the Saenger theater. The Frank Tashlin production, in DeLuxe color, also stars Betsy Drake and Joan Blondell. Tashlin also directed the film from his own screen story and screenplay.

Following "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" a short time ago, the actor-comedian was quoted to have said: "I'm anxiously awaiting my next call from Twentieth Century-Fox for a new movie."

The brilliant young performer didn't have long to wait. The call, or calls, as it were, came from Producer - Director - Scenarist Frank Tashlin, who wanted Tony for the title role in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

The CinemaScope adaptation of the hit Broadway play coming to the Saenger theater Sunday. No sooner had Tashlin started out a delighted affirmation, than he received another call from Producer Jerry Wald who offered him the salesman role in his production of "No Down Payment."

To this, too, Tony said yes, provided Mr. Wald could wait until "Rock Hunter" was completed. The producer agreed.

This dual offer (there was a third which Tony was forced to turn down because of "prior commitments") should certainly serve as a genuine tribute and acknowledgment of a new Hollywood star, who, as the song in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" says, "Got It Made."

Although Hollywood thus far has regarded Randall as a comedian, he himself feels he is not basically a funnyman, but believes the same techniques apply to all forms of the actor's art.

"Even though I love doing comedy, I don't want to be typed as a comedian," says Randall. "That's why I welcome playing the salesman in 'No Down Payment.'"

"I don't feel, either, that comedy is much different from heavier drama as far as the actor's approach is concerned. It's all a matter of mastering a dramatic technique, then applying it to whatever type role comes along."

Though relatively new to movies, Tony Randall can speak with qualified authority on the subject of acting. He had a co-starring role with Paul Muni in the Broadway play, "Inherit the Wind," and played Mr. Westcott in the "Mr. Peepers" TV series.

In "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?", Tony is co-starred with Jayne Mansfield, Betsy Drake and Joan Blondell. He plays an advertising copywriter who, in his attempts to get an endorsement for an account from Hollywood's top glamor gal (Miss Mansfield), becomes involved in a series of hilarious incidents.

In this, Hollywood's first-scale satire on television, radio and Madison Avenue, Frank Tashlin, especially popular for his sight and sound gags, ("The Lieutenant Wore Skirts" and "The Girl Can't Help It"), has again filled his production with this type of comedy, the greatest proportion of which is executed by Tony Randall.

(D-Tex) said in Atlanta that President Eisenhower or Secretary of Defense McElroy should "knock some heads together" to get steam behind an adequate missile development program.

Rayburn said it appeared to him the United States has lagged on the missile program, but that it wasn't the fault of the Democratic-controlled Congress. "We gave every dollar that the administration asked for," he said.

In Baltimore, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland last night criticized what he termed "little men who seek political promotion by way of terror" in the wake of the Russian satellite launching. Speaking at a Republican banquet, McKeldin singled out Senators Symington (D-Mo.) and Mansfield (D-Mont), both of whom have expressed alarm at Russia's heading the United States to the punch in sending aloft the world's first space vehicle.

Sen. Chapman (R-Ind.) who has just returned from Russia, said he doubts the United States needs to spend more money on the space satellite program. But he said "we've got to reappraise our attitude toward scientists" and encourage training of more of them.

He said the Russians treat their scientists better than his country does.

Relations Are Strained by L. R. Incident

NEW YORK (AP) — The Wall Street Journal said today that Little Rock and its aftermath "are putting new stress on strained race relations in much of the South."

The newspaper based its report on a survey by 12 of its reporters in 14 Southern states.

"This added tension could lead to further friction between whites and Negroes — in factories, union halls, business places and in other schools slated to be integrated, in coming months," the article said.

It said there had been only isolated instances of overt hostility since the school integration problem developed in Little Rock.

"But Little Rock is clearly leaving a legacy of ill will," it said.

"It has prodded a good many formerly passive 'moderates' into taking sides; membership in the Citizens' Councils in many areas has spiked in recent weeks; contributions to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have increased, too."

"Propaganda on both sides are stepping up their efforts. So are the agitators."

The article, headlined "Mood of the South," said short tempers and angry words are accenting new race relations strains.

"Belligerency is observable in a lot of little ways — in what people are saying, and in what they are doing," the newspaper said.

An unidentified Negro leader in Miami, Fla., hinted that there would be renewed efforts to prod school integration there this winter during the tourist season.

"We've got them (segregationists) over a barrel and don't think they don't know it," he was quoted as saying. "They don't dare to get uppity when all those Northern visitors are here."

On Greenville, in northeastern Texas, a white employee told of a Negro boy asking him at a traffic light for a lift to town.

"I slammed the door and drove off," the man was quoted. "Before Little Rock, I probably would have picked him up. I've often given Negroes a lift."

The Journal reporters conducted their survey in states from Florida to Tennessee and from Texas to Maryland. They talked with more than 120 white and Negro leaders.

Nearly two-thirds agreed Little Rock had a perceptible impact on their own communities, though they differed widely on just how important it was.

"Most of those who denied Little Rock had any effect expressed concern, nevertheless, about race relations in general. They noted that Little Rock obviously hadn't helped."

A white educator in Shreveport, La., was quoted as saying: "Little Rock has made an already tense situation explosive. Just hearing people talk convinces me that things have gotten especially tense in the past few weeks."

A Virginia Democratic leader, unidentified, put it this way: "It's obviously added to the tension, to the potential for a real good blowup in integration over comes here. But things were pretty tense before."

order the troops away. However Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock, the attorney who filed the petition for a member of the segregationist League of Central High Mothers, said an appeal would be made.

Coffelt charged that Davies' dismissal of the petition while a decision to name a three-judge court was pending constituted "ample grounds for his impeachment."

Gov. Orval Faubus hinted that the state might enter the case and rerule the suit.

Coffelt filed the suit Oct. 2 for Mrs. Margaret Jackson, 36, vice-president of the Mothers' League. Named as defendants were Col. William A. Kuhn, commander of the 101st Airborne Division troop contingent on duty at Little Rock, and Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commander of the Arkansas Military Dist.

The suit asked that the officers be enjoined from policing, occupying or otherwise interfering with Central High School property of operations.

Davies' dismissal order, dated Oct. 15 and received by the U. S. District Court clerk's office yesterday, said the petition was "in all things dismissed for lack of jurisdiction upon the ground that it raises no substantial federal constitutional issue."

An expected new development in the integration crisis failed to materialize yesterday.

tion on the contract. Gordon said General Motors testified at length last Aug. 16 during a House Armed Services subcommittee hearing into the controversial contract.

Gordon said at that time his firm demonstrated that the price of the airplanes was arrived at by negotiations with the Air Force as provided in the contract.

Rep. Hefbert (D-La.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said in a statement that the claim against GM is based on apparent misrepresentations of costs to the Air Force, a question of "recovery for civil fraud," and a "possibility of criminal liability" on the part of General Motors and its employees.

A spokesman for the GAO said he could not predict what Brown, all's action would be but assumed that if preliminary investigation indicates the government has a valid claim, efforts would be made to collect the amount overpaid.

86-Year-Old Takes a Bride of 82

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 86-year-old great-grandfather last night married his childhood sweetheart, an 82-year-old great-grandmother — while 1,200 grandmothers and great-grandmothers looked on.

Actor Francis X. Bushman gave the bride away and singer Dorothy Collins sang "I Love You Truly."

The bridegroom, Weyland Wood, a retired real estate broker from Santa Ana, Calif., told reporters they had planned a private ceremony at home. But the matter was taken out of their hands when delegates to the convention of the National Federation of Grandmothers Clubs learned of their plans.

The bride, Mrs. Carrie Anderson of Bremerton, Wash.,

EXCEPT THE LORD BUILD THE HOUSE

THEY LABOR IN VAIN THAT BUILD IT

DISCORDS

O H, how important they are! No music would be sweet without them. No life can mean much until it first suffers them.

It takes discords to prove the true beauty of the finer harmonies. Without discords we have stagnation...no opportunity for comparison.

One must see them, concords and discords, alongside each other if one is to have the full picture. Compare the selfish with the unselfish; the cactus with the rose; the christian life with the life of the wayward. Compare the touch of the beginner with that of the concert pianist.

Ah, there it is. Now you understand. God put His church right in the middle of all this and furnished it with a pew and an altar where men might pray. He offers His grace to sustain us in our darkest hour — when discords disrupt and darkness dulls our way. The doors of His church are ajar and He invites all men; even men of disrepute — men who still question His authority. Won't you come to church?

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a molding religious character. Slavesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we on Sunday, "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.
